1. The Ministry of War has expropriated an area of forty acres in the Trans-Tisza part of Hungary near Hajdunahas. A modern "tractor center" is being constructed here under military supervision. Some Russian workers are being used. The center is actually Hungary's largest and finest tank repair workshop. Part of its machinery is from the Hoffherr and Schrantz factory in Budapest and part from Russia. The machinery from Russia was brought in by plane to Debrecen.
2. Accomodation for four hundred "tractor workers" has been arranged in some two and four-story buildings. Underground air raid shelters will accomodate about six hundred others.
3. An underground granary with room for four hundred wagons of grain is also being constructed in the area expropriated by the War Ministry. It is nearing completion.
4. The construction work has been heavily guarded by military and police forces. Only workers from remote parts of Hungary are employed in the construction work, though many peasants from the Hajdunahas locality applied. All workers are quartered in the construction area and are allowed no contact with the local people.
